2022 Beijing International Workshop on Microeconomics: Empirics, Experiments and Theory

Conference Program

2022 Beijing International Workshop on Microeconomics: Empirics, Experiments and Theory

November 12-13, 2022
Room 409, Domestic Building 2

International Business School
Beijing Foreign Studies University

In order to create a forum for academic communication among scholars around the world on topics in Microeconomic Theory, Behavioral Economics and Experimental Economics, the Beijing Foreign Studies University, International Business School (IBS), is honored to host the 2022 Beijing International Workshop on Microeconomics: Empirical, Experiments and Theory (MEET). The conference will take place in Room 409 at the Domestic Building 2, Beijing Foreign Studies University, from November 12th to November 13th, 2022. Fourteen eminent professors and young scholars from China, Australia, Germany, the UK and the US have been invited to present their recent research in the conference. It is our sincere hope to promote research and dialogue in Microeconomic Theory and Behavioral and Experimental Economics through this international conversation. The conference will be held in English.

This is the 4th international conference in the fields of Microeconomic Theory, Behavioral Economics and Experimental Economics hosted by the Beijing Foreign Studies University, International Business School (IBS). We plan to hold the conference on an annual basis each autumn at Beijing Foreign Studies University. Our aim is to build a platform for academic discussion on topics in Microeconomic Theory, Behavioral Economics and Experimental Economics.

The conference sessions are open to the public. Individuals interested in attending may officially register with Dr. LIAN Zeng (lianzeng@bfsu.edu.cn) for further information. There is no registration fee.
